

EARN $30 or more

FOR PARTICIPATING IN A RESEARCH STUDY

If you are between the ages of 14 and 30 you may be eligible to participate in a 2-hour research study entitled “Decision-Making in Everyday Life.”

What will I do? You will meet with a researcher and answer questions about your background, life experiences, intellectual abilities, and decision-making. You will then complete several computer games.

Where will I be interviewed? You may come to our office at Duke University in Durham or we may meet you at a mutually convenient location.

How much will I get paid for my time? You will earn $30 or more for completing the tasks.

Do I need my parent's permission? If you are under 18 you must have your parent sign a consent form that we will provide.

How do I sign up?

Just call our office at 919-613-9288
email us at dmel@duke.edu to find out more about the study.

This study will help us understand how children, adolescents, and young adults make decisions in everyday life. The long term goal is to use what is learned about age and differences in decision making abilities to help develop programs and policies that are more sensitive to the needs of youth.

*Dr. Jennifer Lansford is conducting this project.
It has been approved by the Duke University
Institutional Review Board.*
